Wisconsin RtI Center's Vision, Mission, and Values

Vision: The Wisconsin RtI Center's vision is to bring about systems change in Wisconsin school communities in order to maximize opportunities for ALL students to achieve academic and behavioral success. Addressing the needs of all students through a quality RtI system will become standard practice for schools.

Mission: The Wisconsin RtI Center accomplishes this by supporting schools through the phases and sustainability of their RtI system implementation. The core reason that the Wisconsin RtI Center exists is to develop, coordinate, and provide high quality professional development and technical assistance, as well as to gather, analyze, and disseminate RtI implementation data to enhance the support of schools' implementation.

Values: Today's decisions will therefore be made in the context of both today and tomorrow, asking the question "How will this decision affect the future of Wisconsin schools, students, and our organization?" The best decision will be the decision that provides the best end-result for our schools in order to better serve the students of Wisconsin. Positive change can be significant if the whole educational community works together, focusing the varied resources of all communities on improving student success.

Goal for Schools

The Wisconsin RtI Center's end goal is for school communities to increase opportunities for all students to achieve academic and behavioral success by implementing a multi-level system of support that meets the needs of each student. Schools measure their implementation success through the analysis of outcome data demonstrating increased student achievement and school climate.
